

Thank you..Thank you..Thanks..

Thank you for preparing your child for the Thanksgiving show. Our group has come out as stars.

They are getting ready for their 5th grade Thanksgiving performance in 2 years time.

winter celebrations

Now that Thanksgiving is off the list, it is time to talk about the

Our class is quite culturally diverse. We have rich customs to share! With that in mind, we know that not everyone celebrates Christmas in winter. One's New Year may not even be on the 1st of January. I would like to ask parents to find some time to share their holiday traditions with us at school. It is important that the children learn about one another, and for each child to be proud of who they are and where they are from. We welcome parent volunteers to educate us about different traditions. We would like to learn from you.

Nonetheless, whichever belief you hold, we can celebrate and enjoy the spirit of "good will" together. It is time to and

. It is time to be grateful and show gratitude.

Tying in with our curriculum, the children wrote a "My Holiday Wish Letter." It was posted to Santa in the North Pole! We are looking forward to receiving the reply any day now.

Yes, yes, even though the Thanksgiving show occupied us for the past few weeks, we managed to, in a nutshell, practice our multiplication and division, learn about adjectives and adverbs, and rocky planets vs gas giants, and the phases of the moon.

The Space take-home project is due next Friday.

Thank you for your support,

Ratchanee
